Roosevelt Again Heads Democratic Presidential Ticket

Virginia Delegation Splits Its 22 Votes 4 Ways In Balloting

FLASH! President Roosevelt will address the Demoeratic Convention and the Nation from Washington tonight at 10:00 O'clock E. S. T.

Breaking all traditions against a "Third Term" the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last night renominated Franklin D. Roosevelt as its standard bearer in this fall's presidential election. The nomination came swiftly on the very first ballot, with less than 200 votes going to James A. Farley, John Nance Garner, Millard F. Tydings and Cordell Hull.

The 22 votes of the state of Virginia were split four ways on this lone ballot, going as follows: 5 and 14/15ths to Roosevelt; 3 2/3 to Farley; 8 to Garner and 4 and 10/15ths to Hull. (It is understood that the votes of Senator Harry Flood Byrd, Murray Hooker and E. R. Combs and Charles T. Moses, of Appomattox were included in the Garner total.)

At the end of the ballot a movement developed to make the nomination unanimous.

The convention will nominate a candidate for vice-president beginning tonight at 9 o'clock C.S.T.

President Roosevelt will address the convention and the nation tonight from Washington, and it is presumed will accept the nomination.

Last night's balloting ended at 1:20 A.M. this morning!

Roosevelt was placed in nomination by Senator Hill of Alabama.

The second state called yielded to Virginia and the veteran senator, Harry Flood Glass nominated James A. Farley. The aged Glass drew boos and cheers, both when he quoted the founder of the party against a third term.

Young Democrats Meet Saturday

This Saturday afternoon at 1:30 at the court house, members of the Young Democratic Club of Appomattox county will meet to arrange this year's membership drive and set up plans to promote the cause of the party during the Presidential year. President Watkins M. Abbitt urges all Young Democrats to attend this meeting and to bring suggestions for the welfare of the club.

Last year the Appomattox Young Democrats had 489 members to rank as one of the largest in the state. Chief feature of 1939 activities was a gala barbecue and public speaking at Holiday Lake. This event was attended by Senator Harry Flood Byrd and a galaxy of state political leaders and attracted attention as one of the finest accomplishments of any Young Democratic Club in Virginia.

The annual Young Democratic State Convention will be held the first week-end in September in Richmond. In these conventions clubs have one vote for each ten paid-up members. This year Hon. Franklin Daniel, of Lynchburg is a candidate for the state presidency of the organization and is being opposed by Hon. John Goldsmith, of Radford.

Youth Caravan Program Listed

Next week is Caravan Week in Appomattox. The Caravan, a team of specially trained young people will arrive Saturday to begin Sunday the meetings and other activities scheduled for the week. The event is being designated "Christian Youth Week."

The observance is being arranged by the young people's groups of Memorial Methodist church and Liberty Baptist church, and all services will be conducted in these two churches. The event is projected as a community-wide affair, according to announcements made by leaders of these groups. All young people in Appomattox and vicinity are being urged to participate fully in the program. If the attendance of adults also is desired.

Rev. L. C. Shearer, who is acting as advisor to the local committee planning for the week, stated this week that enthusiastic reports had come from other communities already visited by the Caravan. "We know of no finer undertaking anywhere throughout the church in America than the work of the 68 Youth Caravans touring the Southland this summer," stated Mr. Shearer. "Appomattox is fortunate to be included in these plans," he added. The Caravan is composed of four young people and an adult advisor.

Detailed announcements of the schedule for the week here was given out a few days ago. The program starts Sunday morning with two of the visiting young people teaching the young people's classes at the Baptist and Methodist Sunday Schools and two others speaking at the 11 o'clock services at these churches.

Bright Tobacco Growers Vote On Quotas

To Ballot On Three Or One Year Leaf Control

Virginia flue-cured tobacco growers have much to gain by approving quotas for the next three years in the referendum to be held July 20, in the opinion of W. S. Atkinson Jr. of Clover, a member of the State AAA Committee.

If the three-year plan is approved domestic manufacturers will be in a position to pay fairer prices for their purchases because they will not have to guard against excessive production in any year during the period. A buyer would not likely purchase a large supply of tobacco in any given year if he thought it probable there would be a surplus production the next year and tobacco could be bought much cheaper the following year, in Mr. Atkinson's opinion.

The export trade will be more likely to make purchases at reasonable prices if quotas are approved for three years, and the government can better afford to give maximum support to prices for the export grades.

Under three year quotas farmers will be enabled to make their cropping plans without fear of drastic changes in their farming operations from year to year. This will be a blessing to the landlord as well as the tenant of sharecropper and the growers who have to tenants will find the plan equally advantageous in thea farm work may be planned in advance and if contemplated purchases planned on the farm need not be disrupted from season to season.

Recent amendments to the Iftyle Act can make adequate provisions for full collection of penalties for violations of quotas, and non-cooperators will not be able to profit at the expense of cooperating growers.

On the contrary, if quotas are approved for only one year at a time, rather than a three-year period, allotments must necessarily be less stable, prices would not be strengthened as much, and less government support would be given to the export side of the market.
